CATTLE TOURS ARE ARRANGED FOR MARCH 21

Feeders To Assemble at Farm Bureau At 1:30 To Make County Trip.

Final arrangements are nearing completion for the annual Pickaway-co cattle feeders tour. Cattle feeders throughout the county and neighboring counties have come to look upon this event with a great deal of interest and enthusiasm. The cattle feeding industry in Pickaway-co during the past few years, has been on a gradual increase until now, the average beef cattle income represents 15 per cent of our total farm income. Steer feeding demonstration records kept by enterprising cattle feeders in cooperation with County Agent Lewis and the animal husbandry department of Ohio State University have afforded a very definite basis for the comparison of different methods of producing beef. The cattle are weighed into the feed lot at the beginning of the feeding period, a complete record of the feeds used and the final weight of the cattle are used in determining the rate of gain and the cost of gain obtained in different methods of feeding.

TOUR MARCH 21

The Pickaway-co cattle feeders tour will be held on Friday, March 21. The feeders will assemble at the Farm Bureau home in Circleville at 12:30 p.m. and drive to Harry Heath's farm, one mile west of New Holland, where 56 head of calves will be exhibited. Mr. Heath has kept a very close record on his feeding operations and the cattle are a demonstration of the outstanding job of feeding. The second stop on the tour will be made at the farm of Beryl Stevenson, president of the Pickaway Live Stock Cooperative Association. Mr. Stevenson lives on the Jackson-pk, one mile south of the Washington-Circleville pike. Mr. Stevenson has fed yearling cattle this winter. One half of his cattle having been finished and put on the market. In addition to the yearlings which are "ripening" in the feed lot, Mr. Stevenson is carrying a bunch of stocker calves for future feeding. The third stop on the tour will be made at the C. E. Cromley and Sons, Hedges farm, just southeast of Ashville. One hundred and fifty head of Hereford heifers have been doing a very creditable job in translating corn, silage and alfalfa into quality beef for the Cromleys.

On the tour the feeder will discuss his particular methods and experiences in the production of his lot of cattle. This discussion will be supplemented by questions from the visitors attending the tour and a discussion under the supervision of L. P. McCann, beef cattle specialist, Ohio State university.

VISITORS TO COME

Each lot of cattle will then be appraised. Bob Martin, cattle salesman for the Buffalo producers; Harry Foreman, cattle salesman of Pittsburgh Producers and B. M. Duffey, cattle salesman of Cincinnati producers, will appraise the different lots of cattle. (Continued on Page Three)

Nation Bows In Tribute To Taft

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
WASHINGTON, March 11.—The government of which he was such an integral part for two-score years ceased its activities today and stood in salute to William Howard Taft that genial kindly man who without fanfare and without trumpets achieved what no other American ever did—the presidency and the chief justice-ship.

Flags at half-mast throughout the city fluttered in a soft spring breeze this morning as his body was borne from the modest brick home in Wyoming-ave to the capitol. There for a short time it lay in state under the great gray dome while thousands of the plain people filed by his casket in silent tribute.

He was a popular man in Washington, was Justice Taft. His infectious chuckle, his unfailing humor and his serene philosophy were as much a part of Washington as the monument. Political opponents he may have had; of enemies he had none.

From the book-shelfed library where in life he spent so much time his body was borne on a caisson to "The Hill." The muffled beat of drums and the sadly beautiful strains of the dirge awakened the populace to the realization that a president was dead. Pennsylvania-ave, that mile-long stretch that has been the stage for so much American history, echoed once more to the tramp of marching men and the staccato clatter of horses' hoofs.

It was down this same avenue that William Howard Taft rode just 21 years ago last Tuesday to become the 27th president of the United States. Upon that occasion there was a blizzard that cut off all communication and left the country in ignorance for days that he had taken the oath of office.

Today the air had the caressing touch of spring, and the whole country will listen in this afternoon when his body is committed to a soldiers' grave in Arlington. Such is the difference of 21 years.

The city was hardly stirring this morning when the grim caisson rolled up Wyoming-ave and paused in front of the square-built brick house. A detail of non-commissioned officers from the army, navy and marine corps bore the casket from the home and placed it on the flag-draped artillery rack.

BANDS PRESENT
Drawn by six horses it moved quickly off, followed by the army and navy bands, and a military and naval escort that included all branches of the service. There was a battalion of infantry, a battalion of field artillery, a battalion of marines and a company of bluejackets, commanded by a major.

He added humor to his program when he read the club several letters he has received from listeners of his station.

After eight years, since the idea originated, the "Road to Remembrance," to be dedicated to the soldiers who lost their lives in the World War, has finally materialized. Monday afternoon, 13 organizations were represented at a meeting at the home of Miss Nell Weldon, and gave their money to the "Road of Remembrance" fund, designating their co-operation in the project.

Four miles north of Circleville, just beyond Bella siding, there will be 50 maple trees planted 50 feet apart on either side of the road, for one-half mile. The trees will be bought locally and their upkeep and replacement will be taken care of by the state highway department. This arch of stately trees will be a magnificent memorial for the bravest lads in history.

There will also be a boulder, with a bronze tablet describing the memorial. It is also thought that this boulder can be found in this vicinity, and that the commissioners may be obtained to haul the boulder free of charge.

TO GO AHEAD

Miss Weldon, with the help of Mrs. Gilmore and Mrs. Heffner expect to go ahead immediately with the "Road of Remembrance." It is the opinion of authorities that the trees should be planted within a month, as May has proved too late for the best results in planting trees.

Harley Colwell is treasurer of the "Road of Remembrance" project.

COMMITTEE WILL WRITE UNDERWOOD

Will Propose To Congressman That This City Get Appropriation This Year.

A new postoffice building for Circleville was proposed at a meeting of businessmen held Monday afternoon to discuss the unemployment situation.

Contending that the Circleville postoffice's business has increased steadily, a committee will write to Congressman Mell G. Underwood at once, requesting him to take the proper steps for a federal building here.

An appropriations bill of gigantic proportions, providing funds for hundreds of postoffice buildings for smaller cities, is now before congress. Circleville interests will ask Mr. Underwood to add this city to the list.

The average appropriation for a city of Circleville's size is $125,000, of which $20,000 to $30,000 usually is spent for a site.

Seven years ago there was some agitation for a new federal building here, but nothing came of it. A definite, consistent effort will be made now, on the theory that the city is entitled to a building and this construction would serve to alleviate unemployment at this time.

Eighty-nine of the miners were brought to the surface by rescue crews, and one miner, Paul Borowski, 65, was carried to the surface from the diggings, lifeless. He had been overcome by smoke and gas. Another miner, Jack Pewowsky, 37, was still missing today and although first reports from the scene of the disaster said that he had been found lifeless, company officials corrected that statement today. He is believed to be dead, however, but his name will not be added to the death toll unless his body is found.

240 MEN WORKING

Approximately 240 men were working in the mine when the fire broke out but all except the 91 made their way safely to the surface.

The fire, which was still burning this morning, entirely blocked off the north entrance of the mine and it was in this section that the 91 were trapped.

Rescue crews, from the bureau of mines at Pittsburgh were carrying on the searching today. Equipped with gas masks and oxygen tanks, the squads braved the blazing interior of the shaft.

The Herald's Great Salesman-ship Campaign is becoming more exciting every day and competition is at such a height that the result of the great struggle can be foretold by no one. Each issue brings new leaders who were at the bottom the day before. This will be the case until the close of the campaign, because we have several hustlers, who are striving to get ahead on the extra vote offer and their friends are loyal.

Who will be the winner of The Herald Campaign? This question is frequently heard around the (Continued on Page Two)

COMMITTEE WILL WRITE UNDERWOOD

Will Propose To Congressman That This City Get Appropriation This Year.

A new postoffice building, for Circleville was proposed at a meeting of businessmen held Monday afternoon to discuss the unemployment situation.

Contending that the Circleville postoffice's business has increased steadily, a committee will write to Congressman Mel G. Underwood at once, requesting him to take the proper steps for a federal building here.

An appropriations bill of gigantic proportions, providing funds for hundreds of postoffice buildings for smaller cities, is now before congress. Circleville interests will ask Mr. Underwood to add this city to the list.

The average appropriation for a city of Circleville's size is $125,000, of which $20,000 to $30,000 usually is spent for a site.

Seven years ago there was some agitation for a new federal building here, but nothing came of it. A definite, consistent effort will be made now, on the theory that the city is entitled to a building and this construction would serve to alleviate unemployment at this time.

J. I. SMITH NAMED

James I. Smith of the Esmeralda Canning Co. was named chairman, and Mack Parrett Jr., real estate dealer, was named secretary of a temporary committee formed at the Monday meeting to relieve unemployment here.

Others at the meeting Clark Will, Karl J. Herrman, J. C. Goeller and W. E. Crist. These six men will approach Congressman Underwood on the postoffice matter.

It is the plan of Gov. Myers (Y. Cooper, who named these men on this committee, to stimulate building throughout the state as a (Turn to page five, please)

MAN MISSING IN MINE FIRE

One Other Is Dead, 89 Rescued From Blaze Which Started Late Monday.

AMSTERDAM, O., March 11.—With one miner known to be dead and another reported missing, rescue crews were still searching today in the World Run mine of the Warner Collieries Company, near here, in which 91 miners were trapped by a fire late yesterday afternoon.

Eighty-nine of the miners were brought to the surface by rescue crews, and one miner, Paul Borowski, 65, was carried to the surface from the diggings, lifeless. He had been overcome by smoke and gas. Another miner, Jack Pevovsky, 37, was still missing today and although first reports from the scene of the disaster said that he had been found lifeless, company officials corrected that statement today. He is believed to be dead, however, but his name will not be added to the death toll unless his body is found.

240 MEN WORKING
Approximately 240 men were laboring in the mine when the fire broke out, but all except the 91 made their way safely to the surface.

The fire, which was still burning this morning, entirely blocked off the north entrance of the mine and it was in this section that the 91 were trapped.

Rescue crews, from the bureau of mines at Pittsburgh, were carrying on the searching today. Equipped with gas masks and oxygen tanks, the squads braved the blazing interior of the shaft.

BIG 10 COURT SEASON OVER

Branch McCracken of Indiana Leads Stretch Murphy As High Scorer.

CHICAGO, March 11.—The Big Ten basketball season was a closed chapter today with the dramatic 31 to 29 victory Minnesota scored over Indiana last night in the final game of the year.

Neither the championship Purdue team nor the second place Wisconsin five was affected by Minnesota's victory, but the result cheated Indiana out of third place and tossed the Hoosier team into a tie with Illinois for fourth place.

Don Bondy, Minnesota guard, scored a pair of field goals in the overtime period to clinch the Gopher's victory.

Branch McCracken, Indian center and captain, shattered the seasonal scoring record of "Stretch" Murphy of Purdue by getting three free shots McCracken boosted his season total to 147 points, 10 ahead of Murphy's record.

WEIL WATCHES HIS RED LEGS

New Cincinnati Owner Sees Meusel, Heilmann and Cuccinello Sock Ball.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 11.—Sidney Weil, president of the Cincinnati Reds, is in camp today keeping a watchful eye on his group of hopefuls, who are expected to do some big things in the National league this season.

The rookie president saw the Reds put through a strenuous four-hour work-out by the fiery little manager, Dan Howley yesterday afternoon. The heavy slugs, headed by Bob Meusel, Harry Heilmann and Tony Cuccinello, drove a few over the outfield walls for the benefit of their prey.

CLUB PRIMED FOR BATTLE

C.A.C. basketball players are primed for their contest this evening at Aquinas gym. Columbus, where they will meet the Bellpoint Eberly Cadillac quintet in the quarter-finals of the Ohio State Journal basketball tournament.

It is expected the same lineup which defeated Moores and Ross a week ago will start against Bellpoint. That is Steele and Vierboom at the forwards, Parks at center, Gordon and Merriman at guards.

Here is the offer for next week. Read it carefully—then get busy!

county. But not until the evening of April 16 will it be answered, and then only after the last vote is counted.

No candidate has such a start but that it could be overcome by a hustling lady or gentleman, were he or she to start out right now after new and old subscriptions in dead earnest. All that is necessary for any candidate now in the race or for a new candidate is first to make up your mind that you are going to win. Then make a list of your friends and acquaintances and go right out to them, and state your case in clear language. If you explain to them the fact only votes for subscriptions will win, and that they can be of material help to you by subscribing for a year or so to The Daily or Weekly Herald, you will find subscriptions easy to get.

The top candidates should not become over-confident. Just because you are at the top today does not signify that you will be ahead tomorrow, for in every campaign there are some candidates who are classed as silent workers and are quietly and tirelessly working securing subscriptions each day, sometimes few and sometimes many, but each day, rolling up a few more votes, and at the finish will dump them into the ballot box and make some of the leaders sit up and wink.

Some candidates seem to think they can win easily. You CAN win easily if you work systematically, but no one can hope to win by turning in three or four subscriptions per week, but you absolutely MUST save the extra votes if you expect to win a prize. You have a good chance right now to make yourself safe. Don't lie down on the job. Take your receipt book and go after friends and acquaintances harder than ever; and whatever you do, don't slow up until you have saved either the 300,000 or the 400,000 bonus ballot, or both.

AN ABSOLUTELY NEW CANDIDATE, one who hasn't a single vote, could jump into the campaign now and win, were he or she to get busy on the present vote offer. No one has the prize won now; this is the time to make your hours count. Go right after them hard and save the extra votes.

The special magazine offer expires Thursday, March 13. If you want to get the benefit of this splendid offer. Give your subscription to one of the candidates or bring your subscription into the office or before March 13, and give your favorite candidate the votes.

The Inspector:

Here is "the watchman in the tower". He is alert—intent upon discovering hazards which threaten the destruction of life and property and add to the cost of insurance. From his findings you may obtain sound advice, based upon knowledge of construction, fire prevention, fire-fighting methods, hazards of occupancy and processes, and other conditions which go to make property safe or unsafe.

FAT

Has No Excuse

There is now an easy way to end it—by a gland food. It is used the world over by doctors and others who know. Since its discovery excess fat has largely disappeared.

That modern way is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets and people have used it for 22 years—millions of boxes of it. In almost every circle there are users who show the amazing results.

Marmola is not secret. Each box contains the formula and reasons for all good effects. It has brought to multitudes new joy, new vim, new beauty. Go try it, watch results. Be slender like your envied friends, without starving. Go ask your druggist for a $1 box of Marmola, and read the book in the box.

FIRE always comes when least expected. It sometimes leaves a trail of financial ruin.

While, of course, you do not expect a fire, your safety demands that you be adequately insured and prepared.

Sound stock fire insurance, measured to the present value of your property, will give you needed protection.

Factors of Personal Service in Stock Fire Insurance

The Agent:

Stock Fire Insurance companies are personal representatives in almost every city, town and hamlet in this country.

In no other business does the agent mean so much—in no other field is the relation of the agent with his principal more intimate.

These thousands of local agents, entrusted with great authority—qualified and equipped to render intelligent insurance service—make available to every American community the many helpful activities of the Stock Fire Insurance business.

The Underwriter:

On the judgment and experience of the underwriter, contracts for insurance protection are accepted or rejected. The public and the insurance companies are jointly interested in preventing unwarranted or illegitimate loss payments. By considering individual responsibility, and using the vast amount of reliable information by which risks are judged, the underwriter serves the public by avoiding improper losses.

The Inspector:

Here is "the watchman in the tower". He is alert—intent upon discovering hazards which threaten the destruction of life and property and add to the cost of insurance. From his findings you may obtain sound advice, based upon knowledge of construction, fire prevention, fire fighting methods, hazards of occupancy and processes, and other conditions which go to make property safe or unsafe.

The Adjuster:

This man follows disaster. Owing to the disturbed condition of the policy-holder at the moment, his task is difficult. But his purpose is to settle each legitimate claim in keeping with the rights of the interested parties. Less than one percent of his adjustments—with nearly a million reports of losses each year—are followed by litigation; a fine tribute to his fairness and ability.

All of these personal factors are an essential part of the service rendered by Stock Fire Insurance.

tle. E. A. Beamer, Blissfield, Mich., president of the National Live Stock Cooperative Association, and an experienced beef cattle feeder will be among the visitors.

Paul Gerlaugh, chief of the animal husbandry department of the Ohio experiment station is never counted a visitor among Pickaway-co cattle feeders. Mr. Gerlaugh will be with the group throughout the tour.

The annual cattle feeders tour is one of the primary steps in broadcasting economic feeding practices, as they relate to Pickaway-co feeding and operating conditions. The local demonstration is a supplement to the experimental research which is being conducted by the Ohio experiment station and animal husbandry department of the Ohio State University.

Pickaway-co cattle feeders are to be congratulated upon setting aside one day in which they study problems which pertain to their specialized industry. A day in which they may exchange experiences from a common interest standpoint which discussions reflect in greater efficiencies throughout the beef producing industry. All cattle feeders are welcome to attend this tour. An interesting, profitable and enjoyable program awaits those who attend the cattle feeders tour. Friday, March 21.

Men who would keep that trim, proper form; women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuses. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain that lithe, youthful figure.

tie. E. A. Beamer, Blissfield, Mich., president of the National Live Stock Cooperative Association, and an experienced beef cattle feeder will be among the visitors.

Paul Gerlaugh, chief of the animal husbandry department of the Ohio experiment station is never counted a visitor among Pickaway-co cattle feeders. Mr.
Gerlaugh will be with the group throughout the tour.

The annual cattle feeders tour is one of the primary steps in broadcasting economic feeding practices, as they relate to Pick-away-co feeding and operating conditions. The local demonstration are a supplement to the experimental research which is being conducted by the Ohio experiment station and animal husbandry department of the Ohio State University.

Pickaway-co cattle feeders are to be congratulated upon setting aside one day in which they study problems which pertain to their specialized industry. A day in which they may exchange experiences from a common interest standpoint which discussions reflect in greater efficiencies throughout the beef producing industry. All cattle feeders are welcome to attend this tour. An interesting, profitable and enjoyable program awaits those who attend the cattle feeders tour, Friday, March 21.

30 MINERS KILLED IN ELEVATOR DROP

LONDON, MARCH 11.—Thirty miners were killed and eight injured when an elevator dropped in a shaft of the Grown mine near Johannesburg, South Africa, according to dispatches to the evening newspapers from that city today.

The accident occurred at a change of shift. Most of the victims were killed instantly when the elevator dropped to the bottom of the shaft.

Maine Holds Fog Record

The maximum record for fog in the United States was attained in 1907, when 2,734 hours of fog were observed at Seguin, Maine. This was about 30 per cent of the whole year. Maine seems to average more hours of fog than any other place in the United States.

THE SHOCK OF FACING what your figure may become "Coming events cast their shadows before"

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence

Men who would keep that trim, proper form, women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuses. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain that lithe, youthful figure.

*Be Moderate! . . . Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoktempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

AUDITION FOR NOISE
"Noise is a menace to health," says the chief sanitary engineer of the Chicago health department. "It creates nervousness and wears people out. Much of the noise in the city is unavoidable, but much of it is unnecessary, and should be silenced."

So he is doing his best to have it silenced, supported by an anti-noise ordinance similar to one recently adopted in New York. And being an engineer, he has an ingenious device to locate the offensive noises and register the evidence.

This is an "audiometer" which seems to be a sort of combination of tuning fork and electric battery, and is designed to give noise an audition, as a radio broadcaster would say. It gives normally a buzz which is comparable in volume of sound to the speaking voice at close range. Above this volume, sound becomes unpleasant and therefore unhealthful. The inspector, as he goes around snooping for illegal noise, holds the contraption to his ear and turns a dial. Street noises not greater than the noise of the automatic buzzer are all right. Louder noises are indicated in percentages on an ascending scale, up to 100. Thus the noise detective can get the goods on offensive radio advertising signs, street hawkers, elevated trains, street cars with flat wheels, honking automobiles, and all sorts of people and things unnecessarily jangling the nerves of sensitive citizens.

When Chicago, which has been the noisiest and most insensitive of cities, undertakes a campaign like this in its boiler-factory "loop," anything can happen in the way of reform, anywhere. If Chicago can suppress noise, surely other cities can. It may prove possible in time to quiet speed-boats and outboard motors.

HANDICAPPED JUSTICE

The other day a long and expensive trial came to an end in the Federal Court in New York. One juror dissented from the verdict of the other 11. The judge dismissed them. It then came out for the first time that the twelfth juror, a Cuban, could not understand or speak English. He had been called as a jury candidate after all the government's peremptory challenges had been used up. He had somehow managed to answer the questions put to him as a prospective juror and had been sworn in like the others.

The trial consumed a month of time and cost the government an "enormous sum." Then the jury deliberated 27 hours, apparently without discovering that its dissenting member didn't know what it was all about. One wonders why he dissented.

There is to be an investigation. Possibly there will be a new trial. The whole thing would be amusing if it were not such a mockery of justice. The jury system, in theory, may be the best method society has yet devised for promoting justice. In practice, it suffers under some terrible handicaps.

Maby the American public is wrong about the matter, but some how most of us have had the idea that what the American delegation went to that London naval conference for was to reduce armament.

PUSHING ON THE REINS

"MASTER of MONEY"

BY ROY VICKERS

CHAPTER XXXI.
TEN miles ahead of them in the shadow, it seemed, of the old Turkish fortress that frowned from a long, squat hilltop, lay the city that is older than the written word—the city that has known more of war, plague, pestilence and famine than any other city in the world.

"That's Salonica ahead!" said Alan absently. "I suppose it has a sort of prettiness—a beauty even—seen from here. It's that litter of minarets and white towers—they aren't really towers—and those grim-looking hills. But really it's the ugliest place in the world, Shirley. The whole country has a queer genius for making itself hated. You'll find that."

"I shall love it!" said Shirley. "Perhaps it has been waiting all these centuries for just that."

Absorbed in the view, she had slipped her arm through his. "H'm! An amusing fancy! But I doubt if it will work out in practice. . . . You won't find any difficulty in walking about deck now," he added. "The sea is as steady as a millpond." As he spoke he disengaged himself from her arm, walked on a little and began to fill a pipe.

Shirley continued to gaze towards the city, scarcely noticing that he had left her side. Ahead was the land of adventure, and behind, by countless miles and vast stretches of time, were the conventionalities of New York, the remote nightmare of Roger and lawyers with settlements and incredible, irritating tactfulness.

The week or so of the Bohemian life with Alan she remembered now as a maze of work and confused activity. There had been endless trouble with the consulates and it had been practically impossible for her to obtain the necessary papers under her own name.

As Mrs. Brennan, however, everything in the end had been simple. It was odd, she thought, that from the moment when she had first taken his name to get over a trifling awkwardness with the porter at the flat the name had clung to her.

"It won't matter here. No one knows us," she told herself. "Of course, it didn't matter in New York either."

An atmosphere of furtiveness had crept about the use of Alan's name—and that had irked her. It might be no more than a mere social prejudice, but there was, she discovered, something distinctly shabby in describing oneself as another man's wife.

She took a deep breath of the clean, morning air and shook herself, as if she were shaking off all the little shabbinesses that had inevitably clung to her in New York. She was in bounding health, equipped with clear knowledge of the work ahead of her, anxious to begin it.

"It will take them a bit of time to get through the harbor," said Alan, rejoining her. "Everything ready for the Customs?"

"No, I hurried up on deck when you tapped on my door," she answered. "I'm ever so glad I came—I wouldn't have missed this for anything."

"Tourist!" he grunted. "I'll come along in half an hour and see if you want anything strapped up."

As she returned to her cabin she glanced at her wrist-watch. He had said he would come in half an hour and she must take care not to keep him waiting.

Punctually to the minute he knocked on the door.

"All ready?" she told him.

"All ready!" he said. "I've got two, you'd better snap out of it, Shirley."

"Look here, you've left something."

"Oh, never mind! I'll leave it," she said. "There isn't an inch of room anywhere. I could only just manage."

"Nonsense, you can't afford to leave things about like that! If you haven't got room for it, roll it up and give it to me."

She obeyed and he stuffed it into the pocket of the overcoat on his arm.

"Shall I wait for you on deck?" she asked as she stepped out of the cabin.

"Yes. I shan't need you here. By the way, I'll do all the tipping." No man had ever spoken to Shirley as Alan spoke to her, but she was quite unconscious of that fundamental fact. In small matters he would consult her taste and defer to her. For everything else he issued orders, which she would obey without discussion, finding an odd and wholly unconscious pleasure in obeying.

She went on deck, which was littered now with a nondescript medley of other passengers. There were merchants and various kinds of tradesmen of mingled nation-gesticulating, protesting passengers was made for them by the Customs men.

"The rest of those poor devils will be on board for another six hours or so," Alan explained as they set foot on the quay. "Let's see now. . . . Through here's the quickest way out."

Shirley was wholly incurious as to how Alan had managed it. Once in her inmost thoughts she had contrasted his swift competence with Roger's blustering timidity. On their honeymoon Roger had always left her to deal with Customs and other officials. "They'll do more for a woman," he had explained.

They passed through the Customs buildings into a narrow enclosed space that was the dock-yard. Drawn up in a straggly line were six of the quaintest carriages of the Victoria type, and each was drawn by two emaciated horses.

"These things were probably in use in Paris and Rome 30 years ago," explained Alan. "I don't suppose there are any taxis here. We'll have to use one. As far as I can remember, the best place here is the Lutetia."

They approached the nearest vehicle and a man in a very old silk hat stepped forward, bowing and smiling.

"The Lutetia," said Alan in French. "And I will give you five drachmas."

Shirley got in while Alan engaged himself in a prolonged haggle. Once he beckoned to her to get out, but as she was about to obey the bargain was concluded for another two and a half drachmas.

"What have we saved by all that talk?" she asked.

"Oh, in our money about a nickel," he answered. "If I had not haggled the word would have gone round to the various cut-throat societies that a couple of rich foreigners had arrived."

The man in the silk hat mounted the driver's seat, called loudly, and presently a second man got up beside him and began to drive.

"How delightful! We're going to have a coachman as well," laughed Shirley.

Theatres

AT THE GRAND

"The Argyle Case," one of the most absorbing detective plays in the history of the American stage, having reached the screen as Warner Brothers latest all-talking Vitaphone production, is at the Grand Theatre Tuesday, with Thomas Meighan in the star role.

The story of this unusual talking picture, hinges on the mystery surrounding the killing of John Argyle, and Meighan is seen as the master-detective who finally succeeds in locating the slayer. Suspicion is directed toward many characters during the exciting course of the story, in turn, and the denouement furnishes a big surprise.

"The Argyle Case," Meighan's Vitaphone production, on account of his masterful performance has established him as great a favorite in the talkies as he is on the silent screen. His voice has unusual resonance and it is perfectly recorded, augmenting the forcefulness of his ingratiating presence.

Mr. Meighan's supporting cast includes H. B. Warner, Lila Lee, ZaSu Pitts, John Darrow, Bert Roach, Wilbur Mack, Alona Ray-lowe, J. Quinn, Lew Harvey, Raymond Gallagher and Douglas Gerrard. The production was directed by Howard Bretherton, and the original stage play by Harriet Ford and Harvey J. O'Higgins was adapted for the screen by Harvey Thew.

AT THE CLIFTONA

No stage on earth could put on such a show as Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has brought together in "Chasing Rainbows," a new musical romantic drama which is at the Cliftona Theatre.

This gripping picturization of theatrical life takes you behind the footlights as well as before them, bringing before your eyes dazzling spectacles of beauty.

Charles King and Bessie Love are brought together again in the feature, which was directed by Charles F. (Chuck) Riesner, who recently filmed the "Hollywood Revue of 1929."

In the cast are such favorites as Jack Benny, Marie Dressler, Polly Moran, Gwen Lee, George K. Arthur, Nita Martin, Eddie Phillips and Youcca Toubetsky.

Sammy Lee, who staged the spectacular dancing ensembles filmed in technicolor, has created living pictures of pulchritude and color that supply a contrasting background for the drabness of the scenes backstage where joys, sorrows, tragedies and romance are intertwined.

Miss Meredith wrote the original story and Wells Root adapted it for the screen. Reisner and Robert Hopkins did the dialogue.

An Ounce of Caution in Hay Fever

It's Possible to Lessen the Severity of This Malady by Early Care.

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.
U. S. Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health
New York City.

THERE are many people who suffer greatly from catarrhal inflammation of the nose, eyes and throat either during the Summer and early Fall, or throughout the entire year. "Hay fever" is a malady of a catarrhal nature, but it is a violent, acute thing, worse than ordinary catarrh.

It is called hay fever, but hay doesn't seem to have much to do with it. The ailment is associated with many other things.

Summer, when the air is filled with the odor and pollen of flowers and grasses, is the time that most victims suffer from the ailment. Some have it in the season of roses, or when the various grasses are ripe, as when there is the odor of new-mown hay in the air.

Goldenrod, ragweed, and other early Fall flowers are a menace to the sufferers from hay fever. Intense heat and moisture, dust from the streets and roads, as well as physical disability from overwork, may bring on the attack.

If you ever have had this miserable disease, you perhaps had it appear suddenly, almost on the same day and hour it had appeared for years. You would feel uncomfortably nervous. There would be itching, with watery discharges from the eyes and nose, with occasional violent sneezing spells. You would feel about as wretched as a person could be. It is an abominable set of symptoms.

When hay fever gets a start, the mucous membrane of the nose swells and there is an almost continuous discharge from the eyes, nose and throat. Breathing is difficult. Sleep and appetite are poor. After a while, the inflammation creeps down to the bronchial tubes. There is a wheezing cough and an asthmatic condition. Sometimes the inflammation extends to the stomach and intestines.

If it is a possible thing, one should get away from the mountains where the air is pure and dry, and the vegetation is not irritating. Either this or a trip to the Great Salt Lake or ocean voyage seems to be the only thing which will give prompt relief. Even then you may have to go more than once, perhaps every year.

But not everyone can change his abode, even if he suffers greatly from hay fever. But at least you can be careful about the diet. Keep the skin active with a daily bath. Sleep all you can. Keep the bowels in good condition.

There are many preparations for use in inhalers or sprays which give temporary relief, permitting one to sleep. But all such things, including medication, should be used only upon your doctor's advice.

Most of our large hospitals have special clinics for treatment and advice in cases of hay fever. Here are good doctors who give advice for the relief of the sufferer.

There is much to be forewarned to ward off the attack or to lessen its severity. Nasal treatment or slight operative procedures are frequently of great value.

OBITUARY

Lacy, Jane Geolin Holderman was born at White Cottage, Muskingum county, Ohio, on August 26, A. D. 1864, and departed this life near Kingston, Ohio, on February 28, A. D. 1930. Aged 65 years, 6 months and 2 days.
She was a daughter of Bernard and Eleanor Geolin, and was one of a family of nine children, six of whom, together with her parents, have preceded her in death. She spent her girlhood days in the village of Laureville.
On February 12th, A. D. 1885, she was united in marriage with David S. Holderman and to this union were born five children, Mrs. Virgil Holderman Smith, Mrs. Nellie Holderman Armstrong, Mrs. Catherine Holderman Barton, Mrs. Nada Holderman Dresbach and David Holderman, Jr.
During the pastorate of Rev. R. A. Blair, she became a member of the M. E. church at Adelphi, Ohio, of which denomination she remained a consistent member until her death.
She was a kind and devoted wife and mother, always looking after the interests of her family and was never happier than when surrounded by her children enjoying a family reunion.
She had high ideals and was a companion to her children teaching them to follow that high plane of life that leads to greater and better things and tends for the good and betterment of society.
She was a splendid neighbor, kind and generous, and especially caring for and attending the sick and afflicted of her neighborhood.
For the last ten years she has been a constant sufferer, but, through it all, she bore her suffering patiently always expressing her firm faith in her Master, "who doeth all things well" and saying that she was ready to go.

On last Friday evening, near the midnight hour, in the hush stillness of the night, she turned her tired face to her devoted family around her bedside and with a last lingering look, her spirit took flight to God, who gave it.
She leaves a devoted husband, five children, seventeen grandchildren, 2 sisters, Mrs. Eleanor Crippen of Ravenna, Ohio; Mrs. Nancy Jones of Junction City, Kansas, and a host of other relatives and friends to mourn their loss.
"No one knows the silent heart-aches. Only those who have lost, can tell; Of the grief that's born in silence For our dear mother we loved so well.
More and more each day we miss you, Friends may think the wound is healed; But they little know the sorrow That lies within our hearts concealed.
Mother, dear, we are lonesome, For we miss your loving face; But you left us to remember None on earth can take your place.
Goodbye, Mother, may you rest in peace.
Funeral services were held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Armstrong, near Kingston, Monday afternoon. Burial was made in Green Summit cemetery, Adelphi.

OBITUARY
Lacy Jane Geslin Holderman was born at White Cottage, Muskingum county, Ohio, on August 26, A. D. 1864, and departed this life near Kingston, Ohio, on February 28, A. D. 1930. Aged 65 years, 6 months and 2 days.
She was a daughter of Bernard and Eleanor Geslin, and was one of a family of nine children, six of whom, together with her parents, have preceded her in death. She spent her girlhood days in the village of Laurelville.
On February 12th, A. D. 1885, she was united in marriage with David S. Holderman and to this union were born five children, Mrs. Virgil Holderman Smith, Mrs. Nellie Holderman Armstrong, Mrs. Catherine Holderman Barton, Mrs. Nada Holderman Dresbach and David Holderman, Jr.
During the pastorate of Rev. R. A. Blair, she became a member of the M. E. church at Adelphi, Ohio, of which denomination she remained a consistent member until her death.
She was a kind and devoted wife and mother, always looking after the interests of her family and was never happier than when surrounded by her children enjoying a family reunion.
She had high ideals and was a companion to her children teaching them to follow that high plane of life that leads to greater and better things and tends for the good and betterment of society.
She was a splendid neighbor, kind and generous, and especially caring for and attending the sick and afflicted of her neighborhood.
For the last ten years she has been a constant sufferer, but, through it all, she bore her suffering patiently always expressing her firm faith in her Master, "who doeth all things well" and saying that she was ready to go.

On last Friday evening, near the midnight hour, in the hush stillness of the night, she turned her tired face to her devoted family around her bedside and with a last lingering look, her spirit took flight to God, who gave it.
She leaves a devoted husband, five children, seventeen grandchildren, 2 sisters, Mrs. Eleanor Crippen of Revanna, Ohio; Mrs. Nancy Jones of Junction City, Kansas, and a host of other relatives and friends to mourn their loss.
"No one knows the silent heart-aches,
Only those who have lost, can tell;
Of the grief that's born in silence
For our dear mother we loved so well.
More and more each day we miss you,
Friends may think the wound is healed;
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within our hearts concealed.
Mother, dear, we are lonesome,
For we miss your loving face;
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place
Goodbye, Mother, may you rest in peace.
Funeral services were held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Armstrong, near Kingston, Monday afternoon. Burial was made in Green Summit cemetery, Adelphi.

The cortege moved out of the quiet street and into Connecticut-ave, down to Export Circle, and thence through Massachusetts-ave 16th and H-sts, within sight of the White House; circled the treasury and down Pennsylvania-ave to the capitol. Despite the early hour there were crowds along the curbs, bare-headed and reverential.

At the capitol, the body bearers bore the coffin from the piazza up the great stone steps into the rotunda and deposited it on the same catafalque that supported the bodies of Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley and Harding.

Soon thereafter the doors were thrown wide and past the bier filed the first of thousands. Many of them had stood in line since the dawn hours in order to pass quickly through and steal a final look at a great American figure.

Only a few hours were allotted to capitol ceremonies—too few for the thousands who wished to pay their last respects to the jovial man who had so many friends.

At noon the doors were scheduled to close, and the body taken through Pennsylvania Avenue and 16th-st to the church where for a quarter of a century justice Taft worshipped his God.

A simple service at the church, devoid of eulogy, and an even more simple service at the grave in Arlington this afternoon marks the passing of a notable figure.

ENROLLMENT IN CALF CLUB ON

The 4H Guernsey calf club committee is completing its arrangements for the purchase of the Guernsey calves needed to initiate Pickaway-co's newest boys' and girls' club project. Information has been presented to a number of organizations which are cooperating in the project.

The actual enrollment in the calf club is now in progress. The committee will be able to purchase a few heifers for adult breeders, in addition to those which are to be purchased for calf club members. This is possible through the fact that the committee wishes to import a car load of heifers. The heifers are to be of the popular Guernsey blood lines, typey individuals, tested for T. B. and contagious abortion, open heifers six to eight months of age from cows that have no less than a cow test association record of production.

The general trend in Pickaway-co's agriculture is toward more intensive dairying and this project is well timed to support the introduction to more economic dairy producing cows. Pure bred, high producing dairy cattle are fundamental in developing foundation stock in the dairy industry. Any one interested in obtaining one of these heifers, may secure additional information from County Agent H. Stanley Lewis.

CIRCLEVILLE GIRLS AT BLISS

Seven girls, Pauline Hill, Hortense Reid, Helen Crist, Frances Jones, Martha Mary Wolfe, Mary Neff and Veronica Kuhns are Circleville's representation at Bliss College at the present time. These girls are registered in advanced and special courses which the college offers. All were active members of C. H. S.'s graduation class of '29. Each girl has demonstrated her talent either in activities or scholastically or both.

Helen Crist and Mary Neff have responsible positions on the girl's basketball team. Martha Mary Wolfe, Hortense Reid and Veronica Kuhns are registered in the stenotypy department. This is the machine method of shorthand it is in its infancy in Columbus but is steadily gaining ground.

Pauline Hill has been progressing very nicely in her field of secretarial science. Frances Jones obtained very satisfactory grades while in school. She is not attending this quarter, being employed by the Cedar Lumber Co.

All activities of the school have been loyally supported by this group of girls. Some have taken an active part in the debating and public speaking classes while others have won awards in typing and still others have given pep talks in assembly.

Martha Mary Wolfe and Veronica Kuhns are dramatic editor and news editor respectively of the Bliss Mirror.

The girls have all been asked to join a booster's club which has been organized in the school recently. To add to this, each girl has received a large list of A's on each grade card.

Bliss' enrollment reaches the 600 mark. In a school of this size, recognition is not so easily won, so these girls deserve a fair share of praise for their efforts. C. H. S. and Circleville should give them a good hand.

and son were Sunday visitors at the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Loring Evans of W. High-st.

Mrs. John Dunlap, Sr., of Williamsport left late Sunday for Washington, D. C., where she will visit for two weeks with Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, Renick Dunlap and Mrs. Dunlap.

THE RANGE WITHIN THE RANGE OF ALL

Have you seen it? Or, have you seen THEM, we should say. They're here, on display, with all their wonderful qualities. Modern as today; as elegant as a top hat—and ready to give you a headline performance.

What are we talking about? Why, the 1930 Estate Gas Ranges, of course, and we just wish we had studied superlatives more back in our school days. Talk about swell! These new Estates have everything that blondes and brunettes prefer.

Naturally, the famous Fresh Air Oven is still an important accessory. And the Therm-Estate Oven Heat Control. But in addition, new, smart colors—(Ivory with Green trim, Ivory and Black trim), concealed piping, non-tipping covering top, new Rigidraw oven racks and smokeless broiler pan, T-type gas cocks—and many other features which will crown culinary endeavors with success—every time.

Moreover—but judge for yourself. Come in and let us demonstrate the new Estates and explain their many points of superiority. And if you are planning to purchase a new gas range this season, remember that Stevenson's will install any new Estate, and your cooking and baking troubles forever, and the balance can be taken care of by means of our easy deferred payment plan.

Unsolicted Testimonial: Dear Sirs—After using an Estate Heatrola all winter, and what a winter it was, too! I am convinced that it impersonates summer warmth so accurately that as long as I can have my Heatrola, I don't care if summer comes or not.

Signed, Ima User Mrs. Stanley Glick, who lives out on the Walnut Creek pike, told H. G. last week; that when she bakes a cake she heats up the oven of her gas range, sets the alarm clock to ring in 45 minutes, goes on about her work. When the alarm is sounded, she returns and removes the cake, properly baked. She does not worry and fret about the baking, for she KNOWS that her cake will be properly browned and baked. Of course, you've guessed it. It is an Estate that she uses. And, Mrs. Glick is not the only one that bakes in that manner. Any Estate gas range user can do the same thing.

Speaking of Estate gas ranges, we are reminded that we sold one, one day last week, to a party that has used one of another make for some years. This party thought that she had a baker, when she used her old range, but found that it could not compare with the Estate. For instance, she found that pies could be baked in the Estate without touching them until they were ready to be taken from the oven. She found that it was not necessary to turn the pies so that the edges would not be baked harder than the balance of the pie.

As the sooth sayer said, "Be ware of the Ides of March."

Mr. C. H. Weaver, of Peebles.

Mirrors should not be hung where the sun shines directly on them or they will, in time, become cloudy.

Ohio, with four in the family, gets an average of four months from a tank of Pyrofax gas. This is an average cost, per month, of only $3.50. Mrs. Nixon, of the same town, with eight in the family, by using a gas range, with insulated oven, secured four months to a tank of the same gas. Her family has since been reduced to only four members, and she is now on the fifth month with a tank of gas.

Now, you folks that live in the country, or beyond the limits of the gas mains, can you afford to fool around with kerosene, gasoline, or coal, for a paltry sum of $3.00 to $3.50 per month? 10c per day? Why don't you drop in and let us explain how YOU may have gas service in your home, no matter where you live?

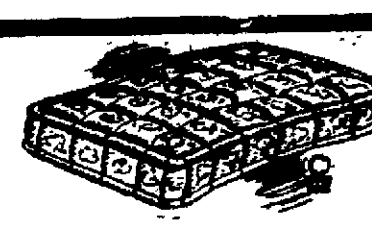

It will not be very long now until garden lovers will be out with spade and rake, planting seeds from which will sprout plants that will blossom forth in all of their glory. Some of these plants will need a frame-work upon which to climb. We have in stock many patterns and shapes of trellises, gate-ways, and other pieces of garden furniture. You'll find it possible to purchase such furniture from us, made by a reliable firm, at prices cheaper than you can buy the lumber, make the frames, and paint them. Better look into this before you place your order.

TAFT

or general, Fred Q. Sladen, former commandant at West Point.

The cortege moved out of the quiet street and into Connecticut-ave, down to Dupont Circle, and thence through Massachusetts-ave 16th and H-sts. within sight of the White House; circled the treasury and down Pennsylvania-ave to the capitol. Despite the early hour there were crowds along the curbs, bare-headed and reverential.

At the capitol, the body bearers bore the coffin from the plaza up the great stone steps into the rotunda and deposited it on the same catafalque that supported the bodies of Lincoln, Garfield, McKinley and Harding.

Soon thereafter the doors were thrown wide and past the bier filed the first of thousands. Many of them had stood in line since the dawning hours in order to pass quickly through and steal a final look at a great American figure.

Only a few hours were allotted to capitol ceremonies—too few for the thousands who wished to pay their last respects to the jovial man who had so many friends.

At noon the doors were scheduled to close, and the body taken through Pennsylvania Avenue and 16th-st to the church where for a quarter of a century justice Taft worshipped his God.

A simple service at the church, devoid of eulogy, and an even more simple service at the grave in Arlington this afternoon marks the passing of a notable figure.

ENROLLMENT IN CALF CLUB ON

The 4H Guernsey calf club committee is completing its arrangements for the purchase of the Guernsey calves needed to initiate Pickaway-co's newest boys' and girls' club project. Information has been presented to a number of organizations which are cooperating in the project.

The actual enrollment in the calf club is now in progress. The committee will be able to purchase a few heifers for adult breeders, in addition to those which are to be purchased for calf club members. This is possible through the fact, that the committee wishes to import a car load of heifers. The heifers are to be of the popular Guernsey blood lines, typey individuals, tested for T. B. and contagious abortion, open heifers six to eight months of age from cows that have no less than a cow test association record of production.

The general trend in Pickaway-co's agriculture is toward more intensive dairying and this project is well timed to support the introduction to more economic dairy producing cows. Pure bred, high producing dairy cattle are fundamental in developing foundation stock in the dairy industry. Any one interested in obtaining one of these heifers, may secure additional information from County Agent H. Stanley Lewis.

CIRCLEVILLE GIRLS AT BLISS

Seven girls, Pauline Hill, Hortense Reid, Helen Crist, Frances Jones, Martha Mary Wolfe, Mary Neff and Veronica Kuhns are Circleville's representation at Bliss College at the present time. These girls are registered in advanced and special courses which the college offers. All were active members of C. H. S.'s graduation class of '29. Each girl has demonstrated her talent either in activities or scholastically or both.

Helen Crist and Mary Neff have responsible positions on the girls' basketball team. Martha Mary Wolfe, Hortense Reid and Veronica Kuhns are registered in the Stenotype department. This is the machine method of shorthand. It is in its infancy in Columbus but is steadily gaining ground.

Pauline Hill has been progressing very nicely in her field of secretarial science. Frances Jones obtained very satisfactory grades while in school. She is not attending this quarter, being employed by the Celler Lumber Co.

All activities of the school have been loyally supported by this group of girls. Some have taken an active part in the debating and public speaking classes while others have won awards in typing and still others have given pep talks in assembly.

Martha Mary Wolfe and Veronica Kuhns are dramatic editor and news editor respectively of the Bliss Mirror.

The girls have all been asked to join a booster's club which has been organized in the school recently. To add to this, each girl has received a large list of A's on each grade card.

Bliss' enrollment reaches the 600 mark. In a school of this size, recognition is not so easily won, so these girls deserve a fair share of praise for their efforts. C. H. S. and Circleville should give them a good hand.

THE RANGE WITHIN THE RANGE OF ALL

Have you seen it? Or, have you seen THEM, we should say. They're here, on display, with all their wonderful qualities. Modern as today; as elegant as a top hat—and ready to give you a headline performance.

What are we talking about? Why, the 1930 Estate Gas Ranges, of course, and we just wish we had studied superlatives more back in our school days. Talk about swell! These new Estates have everything that blondes and brunettes prefer.

Naturally, the famous Fresh Air Oven is still an important accessory. And the Therm-Estate Oven Heat Control. But in addition, new, smart colors—Ivory with Green trim, Ivory and Black trim, concealed piping, non-tipping covering top, new Rigidraw oven racks and smokeless broiler pan, T-type gas cocks—and many other features which will crown culinary endeavors with success—every time.

And if you are planning to purchase a new gas range this season, remember that Stevenson's will install any new Estate, and your cooking and baking troubles forever, and the balance can be taken care of by means of our easy deferred payment plan.
